

The quality of the Israeli banks' credit portfolio is good, and the share of low-quality credit is similar to the US and significantly lower than the leading banks in Europe.

Figure 11
Impaired Credit and Credit 90 Days or More Past Due as a Share of Total Credit to the Public<sup>a</sup>, Israel and leading banks in the US and EU<sup>b</sup>, 2017 (percent)

<sup>a</sup> Greece and Cyprus are excluded from the calculation of the average and median.

<sup>b</sup> The data on Europe relate to the large and leading banks in each country that report to the European Banking Authority. The data on the US reflect the yearly average of the banks with total assets exceeding $10 billion.

SOURCE: Europe—EBA; US—FDIC; Israel—based on published financial statements.